Death Car Revealed as Lysek's

Evidence of Clifford Fowler Who Aided Injured Men Showed Car Occupants Resumed Journey Following Smash Without Regard to Injured.

"We, the jury empanelled to inquire into the cause of death of Robert Burns, find that the said Robert Burns came to his death by being struck by a car east of International trestle bridge on Saturday, Nov. 13, about 10.30 p.m. from which he received injuries which caused his death about noon Thursday, Nov. 18. From the evidence produced we are of the opinion that the car was owned by Joseph Lysek, who committed suicide on Thursday, Nov. 18."

Evidence was given by Doctors Coleman and Borden, the latter performing a post-mortem, that death was directly caused by peritonitis due to rupture of the

Girl Guides Annual Meeting

Report of Year's Activities Submitted—Girls Trained in Ideals of Citizenship

The annual meeting of the Crow's Nest Pass division of the Girl Guide Association was held at the parish hall on Monday, Nov. 15. Mrs. R. P. Borden, division commissioner presiding. The minutes and a finance report were read by Miss Ruth Morrison, division secretary. Reports from each district were submitted. District commissioner Mrs. L. L. Morgan reported on the splendid work of the Blairmore district, an interesting feature being that of a rally held in October.

Miss Ruth Morrison gave a report of the Coleman work of the Guides' coronation activities and the Elks presentation of Union Jacks to two companies. Report of the camp at Rock Lake was included, giving special mention to Miss Joanna Flynn, who, after winning her bronze medalion from the Royal Life Saving Society in 1935 along with six other girls, was able to act as swimming instructor at camp in '36. It was exceptionally gratifying to have one of our own girls in a position to instruct the younger girls.

A report was submitted by former commissioner Mrs. Utley for Hillcrest and Lundbreck. Mrs. Barlas reported on the Bellevue activities.

It is of interest to note the large attendance at First Aid classes, St. John Ambulance Association generously helping to train the girls.

Mrs. Borden reported the enrolment in the C. N. P. Guide movement at present is 301, including six Brownie Packs, seven Guide companies and three Ranger companies, with 25 leaders.

It was impossible to hold a divisional camp last summer due to the absence of Miss A. Yuill, camp advisor. Miss Aileen Picard, Ranger leader from Blairmore, represented the division at camp for training leaders in Calgary in July. She will now be able to supervise her girls in camp this year.

The sympathetic co-operation of the public in the Guide work is greatly appreciated by the leaders who are putting forth every effort to give the girls the right ideas of citizenship.

Electric Clock For Arena

Official announcement was made this week by Wm. Bell of the Grand Union Hotel and J. M. Chalmers, local jeweler, that an electric clock would be installed in the arena. Firms contributing to the purchase of the clock are Calgary Brewing Co., Grand Union Hotel, Chalmers' Jewelry Store and Bulova Watch Co.

The clock will be installed at the east side of the arena, plainly visible to every spectator. The dial will be 4 ft. in diameter, the advertising space around the clock measuring 9 x 11 ft. The cost is estimated at $125. Wiring will be done by the hockey club, the control switch being in the penalty box. J. M. Chalmers will install the clock. Geo. Graham will give the artistic touch to the paint job on the advertising board.

Lectures on Social Hygiene

The lecture by F. T. Cooke, for the provincial department of health, on Social Hygiene, held in the high school auditorium on Sunday afternoon, was attended by over 200 men. Moving pictures vividly showed the ravages of venereal diseases, which are one of the worst menaces to health to be encountered. On Saturday afternoon a lecture was held for women. Other towns in the Pass were visited by Mr. Cooke. St. John Ambulance Association arranged the lectures in Coleman.

Curlers Open Season

Rinks representing the president soundly trounced teams representing the vice-president in a curling tournament which netted the winners a free chicken supper at the Coleman Cafe on Sunday evening. Twelve rinks competed, the combined scores for each side being 57 to 40.

The biggest upset of the tournament was the trimming given Harry Boulton by the Moores rink. Sam Moores has gathered together three raw recruits to play for him and they soundly trounced Boulton's seasoned veterans 11-4. Harry states with a grin it will be a different story next time.

In order to maintain interest and keep up the social end to the game, it has been suggested that both Christmas and New Year's bonspiels be played. Providing it meets with approval of the majority, turkeys and chickens will be the prizes played for in the Christmas 'spiel.

Will Speak On Bible Society

Rev. H. D. Marr, of Calgary, will be the special preacher at St. Paul's church on Sunday morning, in the interests of the Bible Society. He has a most attractive personality and is an unusually fine speaker. Those interested in the work of the society should respond to the appeal for funds. A cordial welcome will be extended to all.

C. N. P. Intermediate Hockey League Organized

Coleman, Blairmore, Bellevue and Hillcrest Enter Teams

Four Pass towns entered the intermediate hockey league formed at a league meeting at Blairmore on Wednesday evening. Coleman, Blairmore, Bellevue and Hillcrest will each have a team.

J. V. McDougall was elected president, J. S. D'Appolonia, T. Vejprava, C. Richards and W. Alexander were elected vice-presidents. R. F. Barnes was re-elected secretary.

Blairmore arena will open for the season under the control of Blairmore Amateur Sports Association, work commencing on the arena to-day. Appointment of an ice-maker will be made to-night.

The Coleman aggregation will be known as the Excel hockey team. Promise has been made by J. S. D'Appolonia, manager of Excel Builders' Supply Co., that his firm will supply sweaters and socks providing the team enters the league and functions on a business-like basis.

It is expected Coleman will be the team to beat in this new league as they will have the pick of all players not making the senior club as well as one or two promising juniors.

A schedule committee was formed but await release of the Kootenay schedule so as not to conflict with Kootenay games in the Pass.

Campbell-Morrison Wedding

Home of Bride's Parents Scene of Colorful November Wedding Service at High Noon on Thursday.

At high noon to-day (Thursday) Dr. Robert Henry Campbell, second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ernest John Campbell, of Carnduff and Estevan, Sask., was married to Ruth Henrietta, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander M. Morrison, of Coleman. The drawing room of the home on Second street, the east end of which was banked with beautiful Chrysanthemums and ferns, was the scene of the ceremony, at which the Rev. H. J. Bevan, of St. Paul's church, officiated, in the presence of about 30 invited guests.

The bride entered the room with her father, to the accompaniment of Mendelssohn's Wedding March played by Mrs. Percy Salt. The couple were unattended. The bride's mother stood at the left of the couple while the marriage service was read. The bride, dressed in brown and hat to match, carried a beautiful bouquet of talisman roses.

Following the marriage service, the signing of the register was witnessed by Miss Helen G. Campbell, sister of the bridegroom, and Mr. Robert F. Barnes, Mr. Percy Salt sang "Because" with Mrs. Salt playing the piano accompaniment.

A buffet luncheon was served, at which the health of the bride was proposed by Dr. F. K. MacLean and which was responded to by the bridegroom. Dr. R. P. Borden proposed the health of the bride's parents, voicing the sentiment of the guests on this happy occasion, to which Mr. Morrison replied expressing his appreciation of the kindly feelings expressed.

During the afternoon a reception was held, those assisting being Mrs. Dr. Borden, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clarke, of Edmonton, and Miss Helen G. Campbell. About fifty guests were present, in addition to the guests present at the wedding ceremony.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Stevenson, Hillcrest; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wilson, Blairmore; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clarke, Miss Helen G. Campbell and Miss Molly Weaver, Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. P. Salt, Hillcrest; Mr. and Mrs. E. Brink, Lethbridge.

Many beautiful presents evidenced the popularity of the newly-weds, who left during the afternoon for a honeymoon trip to Spokane and other points.

MILLER-PANEK

Mary Panek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Panek, of West Coleman, and John Miller, of Burmis, were married this morning (Thursday) at Holy Ghost church by Rev. J. T. Dunbar. Attending the couple were Miss Lottie Nicholas and Mr. Joe Panek, brother of the bride. They left later in the day for a trip to Calgary, and will live at Burmis, where the bridegroom is a C.P.R. employee.

Walking in the funeral procession were the Elks Lodge, the Polish Society and members of the local miners association. Floral tributes from relatives and friends covered the casket.

Mike Hazuka Fatally Injured Sunday Afternoon

Had Just Commenced Afternoon Shift on Work at International Coke Ovens—Run Over by Trolley Conveyor.

Mike Hazuka, 75 years old, suffered such severe injuries shortly before 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 21, that he died at 8.07 in the hospital. Severe fractures to both legs, besides other injuries, were caused by the travelling hopper at the coke ovens of International Coal Co., which conveys the coal from the tippie to be dumped into the ovens.

He had just started his work on afternoon shift, though on this day he had arrived a little earlier than his time called for. His duty was to plaster up the ovens. He had gone to the top of the ovens to get a hammer or other tool.

He was a native of Poland, coming to Canada in 1908, first working at Lille and later at Coleman. He leaves to mourn his death his wife, a son, Martin, employed at International Co., and Mrs. Albert Michalsky and Mrs. Joe Macnovitch, daughters.

The inquest was held on Monday afternoon at 2.30 in the council chamber, Coroner Morrison presiding, with the following jurymen: J. M. Chalmers, foreman; J. M. Rushton, A. Webster, Harold Willetts, William Pryde, Andy Gardiner.

District mines inspector Dave Young was present for the Mines Branch, and Max Stigler on behalf of the Miners Association.

Witnesses were Fraser McLeod, master mechanic for International Co.; J. J. McIntyre, mine manager; Stuart Murdoch, chief electrician; Miller Fleming, driver of the trolley which struck Hazuka; William Reid and J. Dziedzic, who was boss in charge of the coke oven shift just prior to deceased commencing his shift.

Miller Fleming, driver of the trolley, stated he was on a return trip to the tippie at 3.30 p.m., and saw Hazuka when he was about ten feet from him. His back was to the trolley, and he was bent over as if searching for something.

He tried to stop, applying the brakes, but it continued to about three times its length. The lorry weighed about six tons, and though the brakes were in good condition, the momentum carried it a short distance after striking Hazuka.

Jacob Dziedzic, shift boss on the coke ovens, had gone towards the wash-house, his shift finishing at 3.30, when Fleming told him of the accident. He went to the ovens and there found Hazuka seriously injured, between the tracks. He covered him with his coat. He was conscious and he asked Dziedzic to cover his head. A stretcher was obtained and he was removed to hospital as soon as possible. Asked by the coroner if he knew why deceased had gone to the top of the ovens, witness stated he had been complaining of the loss of a certain hammer, and he believed he was looking for

Japan In China

The atrocity committed, not only upon combatants but upon civilians — men and defenceless women and children alike by the Italians in the recent conquest of Ethiopia, and in the present day by the Japanese in an undeclared war of ruthlessness and horror with the Chinese as their victims, have aroused wide indignation and protest in the civilized countries of the world.

So widespread is this indignation over the atrociousness and ferocity of the Japanese slaughter in China that the rank and file of the people in such countries as Great Britain, the United States and Canada are searching their minds for feasible and effective steps which might reasonably be taken to bring to a speedy end the terrors of the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Doubtless if some effective measure could be devised to put a stop to this horrible slaughter of innocents in the Orient, without serious danger of precipitating another widespread world war in which the avowed countries would almost inevitably be involved, the people of these democratic countries would not be slow in urging their governments to take the necessary steps.

But there is real danger of a general debacle if one or two countries should attempt to impose measures which would be really effective in the Far East and it is this knowledge which makes the problem such a difficult one for Statesmen to handle. Undoubtedly the Japanese are fully aware of the complexities of the situation from the viewpoint of the democratic Occidentals and are taking full advantage of the situation.

In the meantime, people on this continent are doing what little they can to voice their righteous wrath and indignation by passing resolutions expressive of horror and indignation and by agreeing to impose economic sanctions in a mild form by way of a boycott of Japanese goods, but the extent to which such measures can have a restraining influence on the conquering Japanese is open to doubt.

While Japan's proclaimed pretext for invasion of Chinese territory is fear of the rise of Communism in a close neighboring country, the real reason is the necessity for finding sources of raw materials and creating markets for rapidly expanding industrialism in a country whose population is growing at the rate of a million a year. In a nutshell, commercial gain is the motive.

But as pointed out by R. T. Barrett in The Fortnightly of London, England, Japan could have achieved these objectives in China without embarking on a militaristic campaign of almost unparalleled ruthlessness if she had attempted to secure concessions through diplomatic channels. Stating that Japan had aroused admiration in China by her achievements, Mr. Barrett says that Japan "has many friends in the Republic and could obtain the mineral and railway concessions that she wants if she would abstain from military coercion and work upon the assumption of political equality between the two nations. She could even get, in due time, favorable tariff rates for her goods and be accepted as China's tutor. Her natural advantages in competing for the trade of China would make her commercially irresistible, once she had secured Chinese friendship."

Instead of choosing the civilized method of gaining her goal, however, Japan decided to wrest what she wanted from the Chinese by barbaric methods and in so doing is earning for herself, not only the ill will of 400,000,000 Chinese with all that that may entail in the years to come, but the aversion of the people of many other countries of the world.

For the time being at least Japan's resort to arms appears to have brought success. She has already acquired control over a large slice of Chinese territory and her materialistic gain to date is immeasurably enough to put outweigh in her mind any losses which may be sustained as a result of boycotts waged against her merchandise in the Occidental countries. The mental attitude which permits the Japanese to make unprovoked war on a neighboring country and in the fashion in which it is being carried out will probably result in the widespread ill will which she is incurring in other parts of the world being regarded as of no account.

But there is another aspect to the indignation which has been aroused by Japanese aggression and methods in China that is at least encouraging and this is aptly pointed out by Brooks Atkinson, dramatic critic of the New York Times, who stated in a recent article in that newspaper that "the moral standards of internationalism have been steadily declining. Unprovoked conquest for gain is to-day universally condemned. In spite of prevalent forces of evil we are not living in a period that is spiritually dead. When there are no cries of 'shame', the time will have come for lamentation."

Test Was A Success

Television Broadcast From London Received By Liner At Sea

Successful reception of television broadcasts by a liner at sea was reported by Captain A. T. Brown of the Cunard White Star liner Britannic.

Captain Brown said the experiments, believed the first of their kind ever attempted, were performed Oct. 29, 30 and 31 after the ship sailed from London.

The experiments were conducted by engineers of the British Broadcasting Corporation, who set up their receiving equipment in a vacant cabin. Captain Brown said the Britannic, until it left the English Channel, was never more than 30 miles off shore.

"The pictures were extraordinarily clear, and the sound was perfect," he said.

"They broadcast special programs from Alexandra Palace, in London, and the reception on the ship seemed excellent."

"The pictures were reproduced on a screen about 10 by 12 inches. It was as distinct as if they'd been sending it from the next cabin."

When You Fall Asleep

Different Parts Of The Brain Go Into Slumber Separately

When you fall asleep, different parts of the brain go into slumber separately, like the successive winking out of lights in a closing office building.

The discovery, made with electrical tests, was reported in Science, the journal of American scientists. It was made by Dr. Hallowell Davis and P. A. Davis, of Harvard, and A. L. Loomis, Dr. E. N. Harvey and G. Hobart, of the Loomis Laboratory, Tufts, N.Y.

Woman Animal Fancier In Alberta Purchases Two Animals

Two chinchillas, the little South American animals whose pelts are made into $100,000 coats, have been purchased by Mrs. Irene Williams, an animal fancier of Cardston, Alberta. She and her husband, a dentist, bought them for $3,000 during a vacation trip in California.

Mrs. Williams, who has had previous experience with mink, muskrat and silver fox, intends to conduct a modernly-equipped chinchilla farm before next spring and care for several more pairs.

The Spirit Of Optimism

Having Confidence In Your Town Or City Is Important

The spirit of optimism goes a long way with all of us, says the Guelph Ont. Mercury. To have confidence in the future of the city of your residence, of your Province, and of the nation is of vital importance. There is no room for the joy-kills in business and public life. A nation of pessimists cannot succeed in anything. This is the time to look forward to what shall be, with assurance that the future is largely what we make it, and that spirit will soon be reflected in all industry when it dominates our daily life.

Farm Problems

Urges Closer Co-operation Between The Agricultural Economies Of Canada And U.S.

Closer co-operation between the agricultural economies of Canada and the United States to provide a higher standard of living for farmers of both countries was proposed at Toronto by Norman Armour, United States minister to Canada, speaking at the opening dinner of the Royal Winter Fair.

"We devote a good deal of time, both you in Canada and we in the United States, to discussing the competitive features of our countries' activities in the agricultural world," he said.

"Competitive features, it is true, have developed, although I sometimes doubt their fundamental necessity, but I hope you will agree with me in feeling that despite the current emphasis of competition Canada and the United States have a common heritage in the soil as to suggest closer co-operation for a fuller and richer rural life."

"Much has been done already in both countries to lighten the labor of farm work and to end the physical and cultural isolation of the farm family... The current problem for the farmer is not so much one of isolation as it is of fitting the farmer into the commercial structure; of making the farm 'pay' while providing the higher standard of living we have come to regard as essential to a progressive society."

Mr. Armour said it is this farm "business problem" which it is to be hoped the two nations can eventually solve to their common advantage.

"The problem is not necessarily one of large farms or of small farms, or of any special commodity or crop commodities. It is as complex as life itself and in fact is the life of millions of our people on both sides of the border."

He said the United States now has the greatest farm population in its history with farm totals increasing 10 per cent. in the past five years. Prior to the depression the march was from the land to the city but now the tide has turned and never before in the United States has there been such a trend to the land.

ALICE STEVENS' RECIPES

TRY THESE TASTY BUT INEXPENSIVE DESSERTS

Ill health is expensive. In many cases it can be avoided by eating proper foods. This does not mean that the expensive foods are required. Often the cheaper foods are higher in food value. Milk is one of the best foods for dessert. Apples are among the most important fruits.

Fruits are much better than medicines in maintaining healthy bodies. Why not let a good supply of apples stored in the cellar take the place of the medicine cabinet?

Apples stimulate the appetite because they require chewing. This increases the flow of the gastric juices in the mouth. This in turn stimulates the flow of the other digestive juices, and thus the family digestive juices flowing freely is the secret of good digestion.

Milk and fruits should be used frequently as the basis of desserts. After the heavier main course of the meal, they give the palate a completely balanced meal. These desserts can be prepared very quickly and are also enjoyed by the family.

Do you find it difficult to plan the dessert and would you like to try out delicious recipes? Try this recipe and write me for another new dessert recipe. It will be sent you without any charge and I think you family will like it.

Making Success Of Farming

Requires Greater Diversity Of Knowledge Than City Work

"The idea that 'any fool can farm' — successfully — is in some minds, but it is a tragic myth. The man or woman who hopes to make a success of life in the country districts and on the land must have a greater diversity of knowledge than the person, who makes a success of his or her affairs in urban communities. Indeed, the person who knows little or nothing about land activities is astonished to discover how resourceful even farm children are and the multitude of things they can do before they are well into their teens."

Certainly, if we are to have an expansion of successful farming in this province, the old idea that "any fool can farm" must be driven from the minds of some in official circles. Halifax Herald.

Dousing A Poet

Author Of Gray's "Elegy" Had A Nervous Dread Of Fire

A fire, happily not very serious, at Peterhouse, Cambridge, recalls a story of the poet Gray. Like David Copperfield's aunt, the author of the "Elegy" had a nervous dread of fire, and when at Peterhouse, finding his room was on the top floor, he rigged up some iron bars (still to be seen) and kept a rope ladder in readiness for emergencies. Discovering this, some of his fellow-colleagues could not let pass such an opportunity for ragging. One night a sudden cry of "Fire!" caused the poet to rise hastily and scramble down his ladder to land in a large tub of water placed in readiness by practical jokers. After which it was not surprising that Gray migrated to Pembroke. — Manchester Guardian.

These Vegetables Travel

Come Back To Be Sold Where They Were Grown

Writing in the London Spectator, Sir William Beach Thomas notes a curious circumstance connected with a "harmless hamlet" with which he is familiar. The hamlet lies on the edge of Bedfordshire.

When the people of the hamlet want vegetables, they go to the greengrocer. The greengrocer gets his supplies from a semi-wholesaler who lives eight miles away and circulates his lorry twice a week. The wholesaler, in turn, gets his vegetables from Covent Garden, and Covent Garden gets a good many of them from Bedfordshire, just beyond the doorstep of the "harmless hamlet." — Vancouver Province.

Birds do not, like new houses. There is something about the gleam of them which frightens the birds. Bird houses, set out in the fall, will become sufficiently weathered by spring to suit the feathered tenants. Wrens are especially fussy about avoiding new houses.

Arctic Patrol

Ekimovs Furnish Much Needed Food To Royal Canadian Mounted

A fortunate meeting with a group of Ekimovs who were well supplied with meat saved an Arctic patrol of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police from serious hardship last winter, it was revealed in the annual report for the force.

The patrol, a comparatively routine one, covered more than 1,000 miles, travelling south from Pond Inlet on the northwest corner of Baffin Island to Foul Bay on the northeast coast of Manitoba. It was back to Pond Inlet by a more westerly route touching Admiralty Bay and Eclipse sound.

On the first few days of the trip deep soft snow made heavy going for the dog teams and then came storms which held up progress for two days. Dog feed ran low and the tired animals had to be put on short rations.

One dog had to be shot and another carried on a sled. Caribou tracks were noticed but only two animals were seen and the party was unable to bag either. An unsuccessful attempt was made to kill seal for the dogs.

However, after three weeks' travelling, when things were looking really black, the patrol reached an Ekimov sealing camp on a small island in Foxe basin. Here, Ekimovs were in the camp and they were well supplied with meat so a quantity was purchased for the dogs.

The patrol consisted of Acting Lance Corporal Gray, Special Constable "Koomanuk" and a guide named "Kook" and two dog teams. They visited the Ekimov settlements in the district to collect vital statistics and game returns.

Only Recipe For Peace

Loving Your Neighbor As Yourself Says Sir Evelyn Wrench

The Kellogg-Briand Pact, designed to establish amity among nations, failed because world nations were "further advanced than they actually were," Sir Evelyn Wrench, founder of the English Speaking Union, said in an address at Toronto.

"After 25 years of travelling about the world," he told the Ontario Branch of the Union, "I have come to realize that the only way to save humanity is to put into effect the simple doctrine of the Founder of Christianity — love thy neighbor."

"During my travels on this great continent I have often paused to think what a wonderful thing it would be if we could find such brains as those that built the great San Francisco bridges and above Canada's railways through the Rocky Mountains, to pound out on the anvil some political instrument to join the nations of the world."

Japanese Demand Taking Over Virtual Control Of Shanghai

Shanghai.—Japan demanded virtual control of Shanghai and threatened military action if necessary to force compliance from international authorities of this largest commercial city of the Orient.

While Japanese troops pursued retreating Chinese toward Nanjing, representatives of the Japanese government served strong demands on authorities of the international settlement and the French concession. Included were Japanese control of Chinese maritime customs, the postal and telegraph administrations and courts.

Simultaneously the Japanese military attaché informed officials of the foreign areas the Japanese army reserved the right to take independent measures to suppress all anti-Japanese activities if such efforts of the settlement authorities fail to satisfy the army.

A Japanese spokesman emphasized required acknowledgment from the foreign authorities of Japan's right, in principle, to take over the sovereign rights in the settlement and concession formerly exercised by the Chinese government.

Major-General Kimakichi Harada, Japanese military attaché, and Consul General Katsuo Okazaki called on Sterling Passend, secretary general of the municipal council, and French Consul General M. Baudet to present the following demands in the name of the Japanese expeditionary forces:

1. An immediate halt of all anti-Japanese propaganda in the international zone and the French concession and dissolution of local units of the Kuomintang (Chinese Nationalist government party).

2. Suppression of all Chinese government organizations in the international zone and close supervision of all local or Central government authorities who have taken refuge in the international zone.

3. Dissolution of the Chinese censorship board and publicity agencies.

4. Suppression of Chinese broadcasting stations operating secretly in the international zone.

5. Unimpeded passage of Japanese troops through the international zones toward the front.

Passend and Baudet were warned "the Japanese expeditionary forces reserve the right to take any steps they consider necessary."

Job Still Unfilled

Ottawa.—Wanted General Executive Assistant For Finance Department. Ottawa.—The finance department cannot find a qualified Canadian willing to take a job at $5,400 a year.

The department several months ago began seeking a general executive assistant. A number of men tried the civil service examination. All failed to pass and the department has abandoned further efforts to fill the job. The requirements called for university education with stress on economics, at least five years' experience in financial work.

Viscount Cecil Has Been Awarded The Nobel Peace Prize

Ottawa.—The career of Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, at 73 acknowledged to be the leading British pacifist and spokesman for disarmament and the League of Nations, was capped when he was awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1937.

A month ago, Viscount Cecil indicated to the first British congress of the international peace campaign he would soon resign active direction of the pacifist campaign to a younger person but would continue, as long as his health permitted, to function as president both of the international peace campaign and its British section.

Viscount Cecil is head of the British League of Nations union, which under his leadership in 1935 conducted the famous "peace ballot" in which millions of votes were cast for continued adherence to the League of Nations and for disarmament.

Lord Cecil, third son of the third Marquis of Salisbury, was created a viscount in 1933. Previous to that he had a lengthy political career in the House of Commons. He was then known as Lord Robert Cecil. He was undersecretary for foreign

Canada's Death Toll

Lowest Death Rate In Dominion Shown For Saskatchewan

Ottawa.—Canada's 1936 death toll was 106,617, according to preliminary figures published in the annual report of the national health department. This represented a ratio of 9.7 per thousand of population.

The highest rate was in Prince Edward Island, 11.1, and the lowest in Saskatchewan, 6.7.

The maritime provinces throughout showed the highest death rate, with 11 for New Brunswick and 10.7 for Nova Scotia. The lowest throughout was the prairie provinces, where Alberta's rate was 7.7 and that of Manitoba, 8.7.

In British Columbia the rate was 9.6. The two central provinces ran fairly parallel, 10.2 in Ontario and 10.3 in Quebec.

Deaths from cancer increased from 11,156 in 1925 to 11,652. In Ontario the deaths numbered 4,438 and in Quebec 2,938. Tuberculosis accounted for 6,745 deaths, and all forms of pneumonia 7,206. Fatalities from motor accidents numbered 1,277.

Magazines Seized

Raids Made In Quebec City On News Agencies

Quebec.—Seizure of about 70 copies of five magazines in simultaneous raids by police on the offices of a distributing agency and several Quebec newspapers means that city authorities "are not going to tolerate the sale of dirty literature here," Mayor J. E. Giguère said.

About an hour before noon three automobile loads of policemen left headquarters at city hall and entered the premises of Champlain News Company and City News Dealers to carry off all copies of "Pic," "Folio," "Photograph," "Look" and "Coronet" in sight.

The raid was the result of an order by Quebec's administrative committee, issued after Alderman Philomen Garneau stormed into the committee room waving a copy of a magazine and demanding "the morals of our younger generation."

Canada Building Planes

Will Construct 84 For Royal Canadian Air Force

Vancouver.—Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of national defence, said in an interview here that 84 of 102 new planes to be added this fiscal year to the Royal Canadian Air Force would be built in Canada.

The minister, who passed through Vancouver en route to Victoria to take part in the federal byelection campaign there, said the other 18 machines would be built in England. Eleven of the Canadian-made planes will be built in Vancouver.

The new fleet will consist of training ships, service fighting planes, bombers and reconnaissance machines, he said.

His last year's award was given to Carlos Saavedra Lamas of the Argentine simultaneously with the 1935 award to Carl von Ossietzky, German pacifist.

Reported Duncan Marshall Recommended For Lieutenant-Governorship Of Ontario

Toronto.—The Toronto Globe and Mail says in a newspaper story "it is understood" that Duncan Marshall, former Ontario minister of agriculture, had been recommended by Premier Hepburn's government for the lieutenant-governorship of Ontario, succeeding Dr. Herbert A. Bruce.

Mr. Marshall, former Alberta minister of agriculture, was defeated in Peel in the Oct. 6 provincial election by Col. T. L. Kennedy, Conservative candidate. Col. Kennedy, a former agricultural minister, was defeated by Mr. Marshall in the 1931 elections after which Mr. Marshall was taken into Mr. Hepburn's newly-formed cabinet.

Reports were current here that Dr. Bruce, whose term expired Oct. 25, had tendered his resignation to the Dominion government. Official sources in Toronto and Ottawa remained silent and the lieutenant-governor himself could not be reached.

The Globe and Mail says: "The recommendation is said to have been in Ottawa's hands for at least two weeks, but in view of persistent rumors that the Ontario cabinet was not unanimous in its approval of him (Mr. Marshall) for the office, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King and his federal government up to date have postponed action on the matter."

History Of Great War

Book May Be Published In Canada Early Next Year

Ottawa.—Proofs of the first volume of Canada's official history of the Great War are being read now, it has been learned. Preparations are complete for appearance of the volume early in 1938.

Editorial criticism has been directed recently against the delay in issuing the work, undertaken by Col. A. Fortescue Duggan, director of the historical section of the defence department.

The first volume embraces the war from its outbreak up to and including the second battle of Ypres, in April, 1915. Subsequent volumes cover Canadian operations within definite periods.

The historical section was assigned to the task of writing the history nearly 17 years ago, but, although a vast amount of material was accumulated and Canada's participation in the war is well documented, little progress has been made. About 12 years ago Sir Andrew Macphail wrote the history of the Canadian medical services, to be included as a section of the larger work. Since then the writing of the main story has languished.

Meeting In Camera

No Announcements From Radio Commission Until Sessions Finished

Ottawa.—Board of governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation said no further announcements would be forthcoming from their conference until its end. Meanwhile sessions will be held in camera.

The governors heard a joint representation from the Lord's Day Alliance of Canada and the Ligue du Dimanche urging Sunday radio advertising should be restricted to bare announcement of the program sponsor's name.

The delegation asked also that commercial sport programs and broadcasts of professional sports be prohibited on Sundays.

WINS FIRST MEDAL

Dr. J. H. Craigie, of the Dominion Rust Research Laboratory at Winnipeg, winner of the first medal awarded by the Professional Institute of the Civil Service of Canada, for his work in connection with solving the problem of grain rust.

Japanese Activity At Coast

Not A New Subject, Says Defence Minister Mackenzie

Victoria.—Defence Minister Mackenzie said that the subject of Japanese activity on the Canadian Pacific coast was "not a new one to my department."

The minister, commenting on a despatch from Toronto in which Archdeacon F. G. Scott was quoted as saying Japanese naval officers in disguise were living in British Columbia coastal villages, said his department was kept informed upon all matters affecting Canada's safety.

"We have an intelligence service and it is well-informed upon all matters affecting the safety and well-being of the country," the minister said.

"If private citizens have information of importance to the defence of their country, I think it is their duty to furnish it to the department of national defence. It will be cordially welcomed."

Would Waive Rights

Ontario Ready To Assist Federal Unemployment Insurance Plan

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.—Premier Hepburn declared in an address here Ontario was ready "to waive any constitutional rights which may be involved in order to assist in establishing unemployment insurance on a nation-wide scale."

The Ontario government "welcomes the gestures of the federal government with regard to unemployment insurance," he said in his first public comment on Prime Minister Mackenzie King's letter asking the provinces to join in a federal unemployment insurance program.

His government was already committed to a plan of unemployment insurance, the premier continued, and was anxious to assist Prime Minister Mackenzie King in whatever the federal government planned in the insurance scheme.

Nutrition Council Formed

Ottawa.—A National Council of Nutrition in Canada was announced by Health Minister Power. It will have a membership of possibly 25 under the chairmanship of Dr. E. E. Woodhouse, deputy minister of the department, and will include representatives from 17 national administrative branches or voluntary organizations.

Brussels Conference A Failure Says French Foreign Minister

Paris.—Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos frankly told the chamber of deputies the Brussels conference had failed in its efforts to mediate in the Chinese-Japanese war.

Defending the Popular Front government's peace policy from Communist attack, Delbos declared the conference, even though failing in its aim, had given concrete proof of the union of France, Great Britain and the United States against the diplomacy of "bayonets."

The French foreign office confirmed Japan had reserved the right to seize shipments of arms to China from French Indo-China after they crossed the border. The use of the French railway into Yunnan province has been barred to transport of munitions for China.

Delbos told the deputies a new step to end the oriental war must be taken "at Geneva," but after leaving the chamber changed the official record to read "at Brussels." He explained the "Geneva" was a slip of the tongue.

The foreign minister, after describing French efforts at Brussels as having followed the "attitude of conciliation demanded by the entire league," declared:

"Conciliation has collapsed. In several days it will be necessary to take a new decision."

Diplomats said transfer of the problem to Geneva was entirely possible if the Brussels conference definitely broke down.

Should the question of sanctions against Japan arise at that time, Italy was expected to bolt the meeting.

The minister pledged persistent efforts to halt the Chinese-Japanese war and expressed confidence with withdrawal of volunteers from the Spanish civil war would "strip" the Spanish problem of its "international aspect."

Delbos said that France's defence of peace did not consist of words "but in daily acts, modest and sometimes even hidden."

More Paper Money

Britain Providing Extra Amount For Holiday Shopping Rush

London.—To provide for the shopping rush of the holiday season, the amount of paper money in circulation will be increased by £20,000,000 ($100,000,000) between Nov. 15 and Jan. 15, Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, told the House of Commons. Total amount of paper money in circulation during this period will be £220,000,000, Sir John added.

Start Long Voyage

Boston.—With a cheery wave of his hand, adventurous Charles Cox, 26, set sail with two companions on a round-the-world cruise in his 37-foot ketch, Naomil. Cox's co-adventurers are John Gagnon, 19, and Everett MacDonald, 22.

Spanish War Halted

Action On War Fronts

Hendee.—Winter weather paralyzed military action on Spanish war fronts. Neither side reported any fighting.

Observers believed the advent of winter would prove a major obstacle to insurgent General Franco's campaign for an early end to the conflict. Advances reaching the frontier said heavy fog hung over the opposing armies.

New Trade Agreement

Ottawa.—A trade agreement between Canada and the Central American republic of El Salvador, granting mutual most-favorable-nation tariffs, has been announced by Trade Minister W. D. Euler. It came into operation Nov. 17.

May Negotiate New Trade Agreement For Canada And U.S.

Ottawa.—Negotiations are contemplated for a new trade agreement between Canada and United States, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced. Exploratory conversations have been in progress since August, the prime minister said.

The prime minister stated at the same time that the government was "fully alive to the many and varied political and economic implications" of proposed negotiations for a trade agreement between the United States and the United Kingdom announced recently.

In conformity with United States procedure on the making of trade agreements announcement that negotiations are contemplated precedes advice to the public that negotiations are actually under way. Secretary of State Cordell Hull made the same announcement in Washington.

Canada's trade agreement with the United States, concluded two years ago this month, runs to the end of 1938. When it was being dealt with in the House of Commons Mr. Mackenzie King indicated it was hoped to make it broader and more efficient by subsequent negotiations.

Whether the existing agreement will run its course or be replaced by a new agreement before its normal expiry depends upon progress made in negotiations. Mr. Mackenzie King, who personally visited Washington for negotiation of the present agreement, said he did not contemplate going there in the immediate future but expected direct conferences would proceed without delay.

In making this announcement, the prime minister said: "In August last, the Canadian government approached the government of the United States with a view to extending and revising the trade agreement concluded between them in 1935. Since then, exploratory conversations have been proceeding which have resulted in this announcement regarding the negotiation of a new agreement which will, we hope, be on as broad and comprehensive a basis as possible."

Questioned as to possible surrender of some of Canada's preferences in the British market to facilitate the negotiations for a trade agreement between the United States and the United Kingdom, of which intention was also formally announced in London and Washington, Mr. King would not comment in any detail.

On this point the prime minister issued the following prepared statement:

"Mr. Chamberlain has announced that negotiations for a trade agreement between the United Kingdom and the United States are contemplated. The negotiations themselves have still to take place and will probably extend over a period of months. At some stage, they will undoubtedly require the consideration by Canada of possible changes in existing agreements."

"The government has been kept fully informed of the progress of the discussions between the United Kingdom and the United States, and is fully alive to the many and varied political and economic implications of these negotiations and to Canada's interest in their outcome."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

PEOPLE GET just the type of government they vote for.

In 1935 a majority voted for Social Credit as propounded by Mr. Aberhart. The minority who opposed his theories came in for plenty abuse and vilification. However, under democratic rules of government, they recognized that they must abide by the will of the majority. That did not mean that they were not privileged to still voice their disagreement with a mere theory or figment of imagination, whereby every person in Alberta would be given $25 a month without working.

MR. ABERHART and his followers have since attempted to deny their opponents the liberties they themselves enjoy and by which they attained office. But the minority of two years ago it would appear, from figures compiled in municipal elections in Edmonton and Calgary, and a by-election in Edmonton, has been considerably added to by many who in 1935 voted for Social Credit candidates. In spite of Mr. Aberhart and Mr. Manning stating to the contrary, the figures carefully recorded prove the fact.

IN LETHBRIDGE, on December 2, another test of the government's support will be watched with keen interest. Government forces are being concentrated there to try and win the election for the Social Credit candidate, a C.P.R. locomotive engineer. In view of over two years of effort to make good on extravagant promises and no results to date, it would not be surprising to see another defection from the ranks of former supporters of Premier Aberhart. It is by deeds and not by words that men are judged.

NOW IS the time for Coleman people to consider nominating a representative for the next provincial election. In Rocky Mountain constituency the predominant vote is that of the miners. Surely from among the miners' ranks one can be picked who might receive the united support of all labor men and others favorable to labor's cause. It requires organization to win an election, and if the delusion of $25 has passed, it is time that voters looked around to find a representative who possesses more practical ideas than mere pipe-dreams of a new social order and the rights of our "cultural heritage," whatever that means.

DERISIVE TALK against old line parties is propaganda.

Canada and its provinces progressed under the government of Liberal and Conservative parties, and no matter which party governs, it matters little what its name may be as long as it gives business-like administration such as is required in private business circles. If one wishes to accuse a party of political abuses and patronage, none is more open to attack than the present provincial government. But throwing bricks at them on that score is useless, except to remind them that it is hypocritical for them to pose as the simon-pure party of righteousness. Even its technical experts have been exposed as mere propagandists of a man with a theory who sits in London and instructs our provincial government. If we wish good wholesome government, then we must work for it and start organizing in this constituency. It requires time and if we as voters want an improvement, we must be prepared to spend the time.

TRAGEDY shocked the town last week, when a citizen took his own life, presumably through remorse which unbalanced his mind. In this connection, it is significant that none of his companions, who were with him on the night when his car ran into two men and so injured one that he subsequently died, came forward to help clear up the mystery. Possibly believing themselves secure in the belief that dead men tell no tales, they feel that the sensation it caused may blow over. But the everlasting reminder before them of having failed in their duty is something they themselves cannot blot out.

FANATICS there are in all political parties, the Social Credit party being no exception, judging by diatribes emanating from those of its zealous adherents who have a one-track mind. One such writing in the Calgary Herald overlooks the fact that small communities are the background which make large urban centres possible. Because weekly newspaper editors did not support Social Credit theories and pointed out the absurdity of "experts" running the provincial government, they should be wiped off the map. One can imagine the praise this same fanatic would have accorded them had they yelped an asinine chorus of approval of the policies which apparently have him hypnotized. Calgary City garbage dump or incinerator would be a good resting place for him.

"Is the fish man here today?"
"How shad I know? Am I my brother's kipper?"
"No, but I've been herring things about you."

A man was asked why he called his house "The Cloister."
"Well," he replied, "ye're cloister the trams, cloister the trains, and cloister the synagogue."

Some very fine specimens of Dufaycolor photography were sent by Harold Reid from Vancouver to his father, Mr. Arthur Reid, which being in natural colors and suitable for use as lantern slides, are interesting souvenirs of scenes which convey a much more vivid impression than the usual style of photographs. Harold's hobby has interested him for many years, and he has a fine collection of photos taken in various places. Two or three years ago he was in the far northern area of British Columbia with a gold mining company, and while there secured some very interesting pictures.

The schedule of the Big Six league opens on Saturday at Calgary between the Bronks and Edmonton Dominions. Calgary Rangers and Bronks have been defeated with monotonous regularity in pre-season games. It is reported the promoters will have other attractions on Saturday along with the game. No doubt to aid in attracting the crowd. Even with the ballyhoo given Calgary teams, Calgaryans know that their teams are no better than those of other years and those were not good enough to represent their own league in the play-offs. What's more the hockey promoters know it and are fearful of the cash receipts which may result. It takes a lot of money to sponsor senior hockey teams and also pay "dividends" on an artificial ice plant. Coleman and Lethbridge were supposedly too weak for the Big Six. Sez they!

Protect Your Hard-Earned Savings

THROUGHOUT Canada, life insurance policyholders and beneficiaries should realize the menace to their own and the national welfare that lies in extreme and unjust legislation.

These policyholders represent 50 per cent. of the electors—federal and provincial. Through the institution of life insurance, they have so pooled their resources that their collective interest can withstand attacks that would bring financial disaster to the individual.

Despite war, epidemic, panic and depression, life insurance has met every policy obligation promptly and in full.

Despite the financial disturbance of the past six years, it has distributed, and continues to distribute, to its policyholders and beneficiaries, over $500,000 every working day.

Seventy-five per cent. of this money has been, and continues to be, paid to living policyholders; the balance to beneficiaries.

Life insurance is the greatest co-operative business in Canada. No one doubts its strength and stability. No one questions the prudent and intelligent direction of its affairs.

It is the guardian of the hard-earned savings of 3,500,000 men and women in all walks of life.

Today there are forces in Canada that menace the welfare of these people. These forces would penalize their savings and impair their investments through legislation which cancels public and private debts—regardless of the debtor's ability to pay—and which tends to destroy the ownership of public and private property.

The interests of life insurance policyholders and beneficiaries—as of all other citizens whose savings are invested in one form or another in Canada—demand that promises to pay be observed, when the debtor is able to pay; that hard-earned savings which safeguard the homes and families of the Dominion be protected from unjust legislation.

Death Car Revealed

gall bladder. He gave a full report of the injuries suffered by deceased.

Clifford Fowler, who found the injured men, stated he was going west and noticed a car a short distance ahead standing alongside the road with a rather tall man, wearing an overcoat, also standing in the road. This man got in the car and drove away. He was unable to definitely distinguish the car. Continuing along the road he was stopped by the groans of the injured men. He immediately investigated, brought Burns out of the deep snow and also helped Blyth. Seeing that Burns was seriously injured he covered him with his coat, making a pillow for his head by taking off his jacket. He stopped a passer-by to look after the injured men while he went for aid. He flagged a passing car, but it did not stop. He noticed that the numbers of the car license were obliterated with the exception of the figure 4. He judged the car to be a 1933 model, travelling over 35 miles an hour. He secured aid and took the men to Coleman hospital in Hunter's bakery van at approximately 10.50 p.m.

Walter Blyth, a victim of the accident, and walking with a distinct limp, gave evidence that he and Burns were walking along the right side of the main highway between Coleman and West Coleman, at approximately 10 p.m. Saturday. The first intimation he had of the car was when Burns turned slightly to the left and cried "look..." He then felt Burns' body crashing into him and they both went down. He opened his eyes and looked up into the underside of one of the fenders of the car. When he came to a few moments later he noticed a man looking at him from the other side of the road, and the car was standing at the west end of the rock bluff. He both heard and saw a woman shout to the man, she being beside the car. He estimated he and Burns had been dragged 50 or 60 feet. He remembered help being given by Fowler.

James Kerr, proprietor of the Motordrome garage, questioned by Constable Klassen, stated Lysek had a car accident in East Coleman on Nov. 6 and had taken the repaired car from the Motordrome Saturday, Nov. 13, at 5.30 p.m. At that time the headlights were in good condition. Lysek came to the Motordrome Monday, Nov. 15, at 10 a.m. and purchased a headlight lens and two bulbs. He instructed Kerr and Emery, the latter of the staff of the garage, that if his wife inquired into the purchase of the headlight to tell her that it had been broken in the Nov. 6 accident.

Fred Emery, on the witness stand, corroborated Kerr's evidence.

Constable Antle, gave evidence of having been notified between 10.30 and 11.00 p.m. of the accident; of visiting the scene and seeing tire marks. Snow had been disturbed around trestle bridge. Search was made for the car in Coleman, Blairmore, Hillcrest, Bellevue and Frank that night. He showed the jury a map of the scene of the accident. Following certain information he, along with Constable Klassen went to Lysek's home Monday evening, getting Lysek out of bed. Lysek seemed flustered in the presence of the police and was very evasive in his answers. He was questioned on his movements Saturday evening, but at no time was he questioned directly about the accident. He took the police to the garage where they found a 1932 Ford V-8 with a new headlight. They found a piece of lens imbedded in some snow on the car which matched perfectly with part of a broken lens picked up at the scene of the accident. Lysek saw the police match the pieces of lens.

Constable Klassen, R.C.M.P., gave evidence similar to Antle. He stated measurements had been made at the scene of the accident which showed conclusively that Burns and Blyth had been dragged 15 feet. Tracks of a car showed where it had backed off the road and then proceeded west. On visiting Lysek Monday night, with Constable Antle, he made a common-place remark to Lysek. The latter immediately started to tell of his whereabouts on the evening of the accident, although no question had been asked. Upon inspecting the car he found that snow had obliterated all numbers from the license plate with the exception of the figure 4. This is the figure Fowler had seen on the license plate of the car which had failed to stop.

Coroner Morrison instructed the jury on its duties, it being out 30 minutes before bringing in the verdict.

Members of the jury were: M. W. Cooke, foreman; H.W. Clark, J. Poole, J. A. McDonald, J. S. D'Appolina and B. P. McEwen.

it at the time he was struck. Ordinarily his duty did not require him to be on top of the ovens at this particular time, and he was ahead of his usual time for going on shift.

A blue print prepared by A. E. Graham, mine surveyor, conveyed to the jury a picture of the accident and the location.

Dr. Borden's evidence showed that there were compound fractures of both lower legs, and a fractured dislocated hip, besides bruises and contusions on the upper part of the body and the head. Deceased though conscious was suffering from shock, and this increased till he passed away at 8.07 p.m.

The jury brought in a verdict to the effect that death was caused from injuries received on being struck by the lorry, and that no blame was attached to anyone.

The funeral of Mike Hazuka was held on Tuesday afternoon, service being at Holy Ghost church, Rev. J. T. Dunbar officiating. Coleman Citizens Band headed the procession and played well known hymns in slow march time.

Chief mourners were. Mrs. Hazuka, her son Martin, and daughters and immediate relatives. The Miner's Union and Polish Society marched in the procession, and many followed in cars. Floral tributes from friends covered the casket.

A Good Bear Story

Hunter Was Surprised When Young Bruin Got Away

Clair Walton, telegrapher in Lindsay, Ont., tells about a two-year-old bear which he had by the tail only to lose the animal.

After Clair shot twice the bear started galloping around in a circle with Clair in the centre. The hunter had one bullet left. So Clair hid behind a tree and as the bear came around the corner he cracked it on the head with his rifle butt. Bruin fell in a crumpled heap.

It was evident his neck was dislocated. So Clair grabbed the animal by the tail to straighten it out. He heard a vertebrae snap back into place. He let go the tail and the bruin hopped away. The hunter was too surprised to shoot.

Cabinet Minister At School

After Entering Politics Irish Peer Took Up Carpentry

The distinction of having gone back to school after he became a cabinet minister belongs to Lord Charlemont, who has just resigned his post as Ulster's minister for education owing to ill-health. He has always been fond of working with his hands, and soon after he was appointed he took a course of carpentry in one of his own schools, partly to improve his own skill and partly to obtain a closer knowledge of how technical schools are run, comments the News of the World. In addition to woodwork, his hobbies are drawing, fly-fishing, and music. His title goes back for over three hundred years.

Looks Like Wasted Time

Science Has Succeeded In Making Cat Do Ridiculous Things

It looks very much as if science has finally solved the riddle of what happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable object. At Vanderbilt University an experimenter made a cat do what it did not want to do.

How wonderful is man in accomplishing a purpose of no possible benefit to anyone! For an electrical device deposited mass hairlike electrodes on a spot exactly midway between the two sides of the feline cerebellum. All at once the innocent victim elevated both front legs and set on its haunches. Next it stuck its tail straight up in the air, lifted both front legs and tried to stand on its forepaws.

No self-respecting cat—and they are all, all self-respecting—would commit so preposterous an action by its own will. Unlike men and dogs, the cat never makes one move except to gain a definite satisfaction—there must be a mouse or a salmon steak in it, or else it simply is no go. What cat ever coped a dog in trying to do sixteen useless things all at the same time?

What does science hope to accomplish by trying to meddle with a creature which cannot be improved? Rightly the cat knows itself as the greatest fighting machine and the most beautiful work of art in the world. Scarcely to move within that charmed circle of perfection is the cat's personal and historic mission, and not all the scientists in the world are going to tell it any different. Despite abuse and laboratory experiments the lord of the house-top will continue to cast ironic glances upon the busybody—man.—Chicago Daily News.

Gift For Princess Elizabeth

Book Written By Canadian Woman Sent To Buckingham Palace

A Canadian woman's narrative of her childhood days among the Royal Canadian Mounted Police has found a place on the book-shelf of little Princess Elizabeth.

The story is "Susannah, a Little Girl with the Mounties," and the author is Mrs. Merrill Denison, formerly of Toronto.

Of all the uniformed detachments that took part in the coronation procession last May, the Mounted Guard the special attention of the 11-year-old girl who may one day be Britain's queen. The princess later reviewed them.

Because of her interest in the mounted police, a copy of the Canadian woman's book was sent to Buckingham Palace. Mrs. Denison had a letter from the queen's secretary saying Her Majesty was pleased to accept the volume for Elizabeth.

Mrs. Denison is the former Muriel Goggin, daughter of the late Dr. D. C. Goggin, who was the first superintendent of education in the Northwest Territories.

The story concerns her childhood in and near Regina. Part of her education was received in the mounted police barracks, then 3½ miles outside Regina proper. The tutor of the police commissioner's children often was tutor to little Muriel. The Goggin home was "open house" to the mounties.

MEDAL FOR "MERITORIOUS PUBLIC SERVICE"

Dr. John M. Craigie, director of the rust research laboratory, Winnipeg, was presented with the medal of the Professional Institute of the Civil Service of Canada at the annual convention of that body in Ottawa. The award was made in consequence of Dr. Craigie's work for the elimination of wheat rust. J. C. Beauchamp, president of the Institute, making the presentation, declared he believed Dr. Craigie's work, and that of his collaborators, would come to rank with that of the late Sir Charles Saunders, discoverer of Marquis wheat. It would save western farmers in the neighborhood of $35,000,000 annually.

An Eccentric Woman

Hoarded Litter She Collected Daily From Ottawa Streets
Ettie Greenaway, the "woman with the sack," was buried in Beechwood cemetery, Ottawa, after a funeral service attended by members of the city's welfare bureau who had tended her for years. The eccentric old woman, believed to have been 70, died in hospital after two weeks' illness.

For years Ettie lived alone in a decrepit house in the Sandy Hill residential area. Daily she patrolled the streets, carrying a sack and stuffing into it waste paper, pieces of string, tin foil and cigar butts. In a gigantic cabinet that she caused the floor of her home to sag, she stored the street litter she collected on her walks. She would let no one have access to it, believing it valuable. Sometimes she sold it to rag-pickers, but saved and smoked the cigar butts.

A red-faced, cheery woman, Ettie was deeply religious in an unorthodox manner. Often alone at night, she said, she conversed with the Deity. When the Deity didn't appear she talked to Angus, one of her cats. She said Angus answered.

He was the brightest of all her cats. Among the others were Dick, Emie, Wernie, Mity and Eric. Most of them were destroyed when Ettie's home was demolished as unsafe, but Angus escaped.

Ettie's home was a trial to the fire department. In cold weather she warmed it by removing all the covers from the kitchen stove, the only source of heat. The red glow shining through the blindfold windows frequently caused neighbors to ring fire alarms.

Plans Being Held Up

Wilkins Postponed Submarine Trip To Search For Russian Airmen

Sir Hubert Wilkins had almost completed plans for a second attempt to travel in a submarine under Arctic ice toward the North Pole when he joined the search for six Russian trans-polar airmen, the famed explorer said in an interview at Edmonton.

An order had been placed at London, England, for construction of a specially designed submarine when the search interrupted his project, he stated as he paused in Edmonton on his second flight into the Arctic to hunt for Sigismund Levaneffsky and his five companions.

Building of the under-water craft was halted until after search for the Soviet fliers has been completed, the adventurer said.

Sir Hubert's 1931 attempt to go to the Pole under the ice floes was postponed after mechanical difficulties halted his "Nautilus" on the rim of the Arctic.

His new scheme is to leave in early summer, sail under the ice and establish a base near the North where valuable scientific data might be gathered, the explorer declared. Advantages of Polar jaunts by submarine are that tons of equipment can be carried easily and the base can be shifted when necessary to counteract ice movements, he said.

Smallest English Inn

People From All Over World Have Visited Smith's Arms

Coming Events, London, says the smallest English Inn "has recently been sold by auction. It is the Smith's Arms, in the Dorsetshire village of Godmanscote. Built in the sixteenth century, it was until 65 years ago a blacksmith's forge. It has a thatched roof, and measures about 20 feet by 10. Its chief drawback, in the eyes of the villagers, is that there is not enough room in it to play darts." The Smith's Arms serves visitors from all over the world.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 28

CHRISTIAN FRUITFULNESS

Golden text: Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; and so shall ye be my disciples. John 15:8.

Lesson: John 15:1-16.

Devotional reading: Galatians 5:15-25.

Explanations And Comments

Christ the True Vine, John 15:1. I am the true Vine, and my Father is the Husbandman: the metaphor may have been suggested by the fruit of the vine which had just been used and consecrated at the Last Supper, by the many vines on the hillside, or by the odor of branches which the vine-dressers burned at that season of the year. Yet it was a well-known metaphor.

The Pruning of the Branches, verses 2, 3. Ye are the branches (verse 5); every branch in me that beareth not fruit, the Husbandman taketh away, and every branch that beareth fruit he cleanseth (prunes) that it may bear more fruit. By "fruit" Jesus means character, conduct, service. Pruning and fruit-bearing are cut off, to ensure the greater fruitfulness of those that remain. From the fruit-bearing branches the superfluous leaves are removed that no sap may be wasted. It is thought that there is a reference here to Judas and his separation from the little group of true followers. Such a kind of pruning has been necessary many times in the history of the church through the centuries.

The Blessings of Fruitage, verses 7-11. If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you (this is the condition), ask whatsoever ye will, and it shall be done unto you. Prayer will be heard inasmuch as it is in harmony with God's will, and those who are abiding in Christ, who are one with Christ, and whose Christ's words abide and are obeyed, will ask for nothing that shall be refused. "The consciousness of abiding is less important than the evidences of it."

Friendship with Christ, verses 12-16. This is my commandment that ye love one another, even as I have loved you. It is not affection in the sense that we usually use the word, whether lukewarm or passionate, that Christ bids us feel for others. It is the will and the effort that he bids us exert in seeking the welfare of others. Even as I have loved you; Christ came to seek and to save.

Epic Story Of The Sea

Sailors Snatched From Death In Parched-Throated Sailors

Parched-throated sailors, snatched from death by the coast guard cutter Mendota after their Greek freighter, Tzeny Chandris, went down off Cape Hatteras, brought back aboard the rescue ship stories of a dramatic fight for life against the odds of shark-infested waters, stormy seas and conditions that drove one man insane.

A bright red gas canister the nose of Capt. George Couperandis, master of the little vessel which plunged to the bottom of the Atlantic with the loss of seven lives, bore testimony to the harrowing struggle for survival.

The wound was inflicted by the teeth of a fellow seaman, driven mad by 32 hours of exposure in the open sea, clinging to a bit of wreckage while awaiting long-hoped-for rescuers, the captain said. The crazed seaman died before coastguardmen arrived to pick up the last 15 survivors of the crew of 28.

Commander Henry Coyle, master of the Mendota, who said he had never seen "anything like this" in 27 years as a coast guardman, relayed a graphic story told by the rescued one man being pulled bodily through his life belt by a shark after the freighter went under—its life boats either smashed or swept away.

Joseph Corrie, 49-year-old Englishman, who said he was the last to step from the doomed vessel into the mountainous waves and the last to be picked up of those adrift, told of sharks darting at his ankles and successfully scaring them away with a stick.

As if mocking them, overturned life boats, swept from the deck before they could be lowered, floated—uselessly—near the struggling and exhausted sailors when found.

Konstantinos Balaskas, third engineer, who like his Greek fellows spoke through interpreters, recited another chapter in the stirring drama. Balaskas said the SOS, which cracked through to coast guardmen shortly before daybreak, was sent only after he stood over the radio operator with a knife and a threat to kill him unless the distress call went out.

Credit for introduction of the cigarette into English society is given to Laurence Oliphant; it did not become popular, however, until 1870.

Edison Memorial Bulb

Is Now Gleaning Beacon On Tower In New Jersey

The giant electric light bulb 14 feet tall, which glows as a land beacon atop the $100,000 Edison Memorial Tower, Monticello, New Jersey, was completed by the Corning Glass Works.

It took a crew of expert glassworkers eight months to complete this emblematic diadem for the tower, the task of laying the model out into curved "orange-peel" sections consuming the greater part of the elapsed time.

The 150-foot beacon will commemorate the invention of the incandescent electric light by Thomas Alva Edison, who in 1879 sent a rough sketch of his idea to Corning, asking that a bulb of glass of definite dimensions be blown.

This original glass bulb, enclosing Edison's carbon filament between the world's first practical electric light, contributed to the memorial commemorating the event is likewise notable since the 14-foot bulb is the first global cast job in the history of the glass industry.

In preparing the bulb for shipment more than 6,000 pounds of amber-tinted Pyrex glass was fitted over a steel skeleton fashioned in a Bronx iron works and shipped to Corning. The bulb itself consists of 164 pieces of cast glass in a two-inch diamond pattern and is nine feet, six inches in diameter. The combined bulb and steel skeleton weigh six tons.

When finally set up the giant bulb was transformed into a gleaming tower at night casting its rays for miles about the surrounding Jersey countryside. The inside of the bulb is outfitted with 960 incandescent electric lights with a 24-inch reflector to be utilized as an airplane beacon.

The steel frame work of the tower, which is enclosed in concrete and limestone was first erected in 1929 on the exact site of the work bench at which Thomas Edison labored over his first incandescent light bulb just a half century before.

A model bulb cast in a glass case was installed in a base of the tower and was linked with current from four independent sources so that its light would never be extinguished.

A bolt of lightning struck the tower last August, a mass of tangled steel and scaffolding fell to the ground. The glass case enclosing the bulb was shattered and buried in debris but the bulb itself was left unbroken and the light was found still burning. This model bulb was also made at Corning.

To guard against any future electrical storms, the present structure has been built with stainless steel lightning arresters and has been tested against wind velocities up to 230 miles per hour.

The memorial is the gift of William Blount Bartow, president of the Thomas Alva Edison Foundation, who provided for the erection of the concrete shaft in behalf of the Edison Pioneers, an organization composed of past and present Edison Company employees.

Snakes In Alberta

Battlers Sled To Infest District In Southeastern Part Of Province

Snakes in the Combre district of southeastern Alberta have displaced sports as a topic of conversation for the winter's "hot stove" league members.

Hundreds of rattlesnakes infest the district and many residents relate tales of narrow escapes.

The past summer was the worst season for snakes in the history of the district, first settled 28 years ago. Mrs. P. M. Stevens pulled up a dumb waiter in her kitchen. Coiled around the front was an extra large snake. Her sons came to the rescue and shot it.

Mrs. M. Nicholson was enjoying a rest on a verandah chair. Suddenly she felt something around her feet. It was a small rattler.

The "snake year" recalled a narrow escape Percy Stevens, a farmer, had some years ago.

Percy was walking in a field when a huge rattler fastened on his trouser leg. He jabbed at it with his pitchfork and failing to dislodge the snake, he just "stepped out" of his trousers and fled.

The temperature of a living room should be from 68 to 70 degrees, with a relative humidity of from 40 to 50, from a health and efficiency standpoint.

Butterfly lay their eggs in sea shells and then call themselves around the eggs until the eggs hatch.

The modern automobile is only eight per cent fuel, with regard to energy in fuel put to useful work.

Don't Experiment— Treat Colds Proved Way

Doubly proved—in world's largest cold-clinic, and by everyday use in more homes than any other medicine of its kind. No "doing." Just massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. Relief begins almost at once. And long after sleep comes, VapoRub keeps right on working. Its positive and vapor action loosens phlegm, relieves irritation and coughing, helps break local congestion. Often by morning the worst of the cold is over.

WHAT HO!

"That picture was painted when she was a bride, just before she left England for America, said Ernest. 'The date is on the back.'"

"'1763' read Mr. Sloucum. 'Well, they sure grew 'em pretty in those days.'"

He handed the miniature back to Ernest, who wrapped it up and placed it in his suitcase.

"So you're taking her along with you," said Mr. Sloucum.

"I always do, wherever I go," Ernest said.

"Ernie," said Mr. Sloucum, "you are without doubt the best-looking young fellow that ever wore shoes. If she was your best girl, now, I could understand it. But what percentage there is in totting around the picture of a party that joined the angels a hundred years ago, I'll be eternally tried and fazed if I can see."

"It's just an idea I have," said Ernest, and rejected a pair of cotton socks as unworthy of the pilgrimage.

"See here, Ernie," said Mr. Sloucum, "while you're about it, why don't you do this trip in bang-up style? My offer for this place still stands. With five thousand dollars you could see Paris, and Rome, and—

—and Paris."

"But I only want to see England, and only one place in England," said Ernest. "I'm sorry, Mr. Sloucum, but I won't sell out. What would I do when I come home?"

"There's something in that," conceded Mr. Sloucum.

"I hate you, you bound," screamed a raucous voice.

Mr. Sloucum started, collided with a porcupine, and yelled.

"I'm so sorry," said Ernest. "It's only Edwin, the parrot."

"What'll happen to him and the rest of your stock while you're gone?" asked Mr. Sloucum.

"I thought Luther might be willing to look after the place while I'm gone."

"For half the profits?" inquired Mr. Sloucum.

"Yes."

"Sold."

"But will Luther do it?"

"He will," stated Mr. Sloucum, "or he won't be able to sit down till Christmas."

"I've prepared a memorandum," Ernest said, "giving him full instructions about how to take care of the animals and birds, and how to run the place."

"He'll follow it to the letter," Mr. Sloucum promised, "or I'll lambaste the brutes off him."

"I leave tonight on the midnight bus," said Ernest.

"Well, good-by," said Mr. Sloucum, and good luck. Have fun, and send us a postcard."

They pumped hands, Mr. Sloucum disappeared, and Ernest finished his packing. It was not a monumental task. Three shirts, a spare blue tie, two union suits, socks, a pair of gray flannel trousers, the venerable tweed coat, a pair of stout walking shoes, toilet articles, the miniature of Lucy Bingley—these were what would meet the eyes of the British custom inspectors.

Having packed, Ernest said good-by to his friends in the cages and tanks in the pet shop.

He strode past the drug store, ignoring the quips which were flung at him by its habitués, ignored the traditional chorus of barking and meowing which issued from the firehouse as he went by, and smiled amiably at the plesantries of Chuck and Joe, who came to the door of the pool room, cue in hand, to ask him if he stopped rate.

"Certainly. Come round to my ship when I get back," said Ernest.

and marched on to the bus depot, arriving at ten forty-four, although his bus did not leave till twelve.

Two acrobats were on the east-bound bus that night, headed for Terre Haute to join a circus.

"Pipe the rube in the blue suit," said one.

The second acrobat surveyed Ernest.

"From where I sit," he said, "it looks like he'd dipped into the laughing-soup."

"It's a bun, or else he's bugs," said his companion.

They were right to this extent: Ernest Bingley was intoxicated, but not because he had imbibed of strong waters. An ecstatic smile was fastened on his face as if it had been stamped there, his eyes were very bright, and he was singing to himself.

"What ho for Merrie England, What ho, what ho, what HO!"

CHAPTER III

They make good days in England. Often enough the weather of that well known little Isle has the feel of cold boiled cabbage, the color of lead, and is as dank as a halliut's brow.

It was, however, a golden day, from the top of the basket, when Ernest Bingley swung off a motor-coach in the tidy, fit torpid, village of Pennyton which has been taken a nap in a quiet corner of Somerethshire since before Columbus ever saw a sea.

Ernest's knees wobbled like a day old colt's, and before his sea-struck eyes the street undulated like a lazy anaconda, for he was fresh from the boat, having debarked at Liverpool that morning and headed straight for his goal.

His crossing of the fretful Atlantic would have seemed more of a gay adventure had economy not compelled him to share a cabin with three unventilated deportees, hairy, guttural men, who snored and were sick in shifts as if they were carrying out some sort of grim contrivance.

Ernest had felt none too chipper himself and had missed the solidity of his native steppes, but the sight of the neat English countryside, lovely now with the russets, suburns, and saffrons of autumn, put him in high spirits and entirely compensated him for those eight quailish days when his stomach was emulating the propeller of the liner, and life seemed pale green and grish.

He looked about for a hotel but saw nothing even faintly resembling that spruce, up-to-date hostelry, the New American House back home. But he did spy a sign which had known much wind and rain, but on which could be discerned the outline of a plump white fowl which was laughing at the azure sky. Faded lettering informed him that this was the Sign of the Happy Gender, and that its owners were Jos. Grig & Son.

Ernest and suitcase entered. Behind the bar a florid tub of a man in shirt-sleeves and blue denim apron was whistling pouter mugs to the gayly bathed water of "Kiss Me Again."

In English novels Ernest had encountered the phrase "merry as a grig" and it had puzzled him. Perhaps this was one of the grigs meant, although the rest of the expression, "in a clergyman's ear" could hardly refer to this particular grig.

This grig, whether Jos. or Son Ernest could not divine, did not pounce on him and greet him as brother in the style of Charlie Kepple, clerk at the New American House, but beamed on him genially and boomed an interrogative, "Yes, sir?"

"Do you have rooms?" asked Ernest.

"Aye, that we do," said Grig.

"I'd like an inexpensive room for two or three days," said Ernest.

"Five and six," said Grig, "for bed and breakfast. Coal fire, sixpence extra."

"I'll take the room," said Ernest, "but I won't need the fire."

Since setting foot on English soil an inner glow had made him feel that he would never need artificial heat again. Besides, sixpence was sinpence. His assets, at the moment, consisted of thirty-three dollars, and a ticket back to New York.

"You'd be from America, sir?" asked Grig.

"Yes."

"Maybe you know my brother, Orace."

"I'm afraid I never met an Orace Grig," said Ernest. "Where does he live?"

"Peru."

"Peru, Indiana?"

"Peru, Peru."

"Oh, Peru, Peru," said Ernest. "No, I never happened to meet him."

"Shall I show you to your room, sir?"

"No. I'm going straight to the 'ah,'"

said Grig, impressed. "Know your family, perhaps."

"Oh, no," disclaimed Ernest. "I just want to see the castle. Aren't you going to see the castle, aren't you?"

"No, I'm going straight to the 'ah,'"

said Grig, impressed. "Know your family, perhaps."

"Oh, no," disclaimed Ernest. "I just want to see the castle. Aren't you going to see the castle, aren't you?"

"No, I'm going straight to the 'ah,'"

visitors permitted to go through it on certain days?"

"Aye, so they are," replied Grig. "This is one of them. They give it a shilling. They put it to charity."

"On the map it's about three miles," said Ernest.

"Thereabouts," said Grig. "Can you rent me a horse?"

Grig stared at Ernest.

"A horse, sir?" he exclaimed.

"A horse," repeated Ernest, automatically.

"You'll hardly need a horse to go to the castle, sir," he said. "It's an easy walk, and on the pretty side, too."

"I want to ride, said Ernest.

"The barber next door rents bikes," said Ernest.

"No," said Ernest. "I want to go there on a horse."

"No, no, not a hunter," said Ernest, hastily. "Just a nice, kind, old horse; but he must be white."

Grig rubbed his lowest chin thoughtfully.

"Gentlemen wants a horse," he murmured, partly to himself. "Should be gentle and white. Not a nunter. Right?"

"Takes a bit of doing, sir," said Grig. "Ow about a black 'ack'?"

"I don't want to go in a hack," said Ernest. "I must ride a horse."

Grig raised eyebrows like twin mustaches.

"A hack is a horse," he said.

"Mine must be white," said Ernest, "big, if possible, and easy to ride."

Workers Are Lucky

They Go Forward Under The Spur Of Daily Needs

Man dreams of liberty, freedom from toil, schemes for more leisure. Most of us are not fit for it. Lucky is the man who is still driven on by necessity. He should be grateful for the whip and spur of his daily needs. He goes forward under it, gets somewhere. The rich man's son, no better equipped for doing nothing than the rest of us, yet so much more strongly tempted.—London Express.

Guide For Discussion Groups

Questions For National Conference Of Canadian University Students

Intended as a guide for the scores of discussion groups which have been set up in the universities of Canada and are now studying in preparation for the Winnipeg National Conference of University Students, a pamphlet has been issued by the secretary of the National Conference. It was announced by Beverly L. Oaten, one of the national secretaries.

The pamphlet contains suggestions, questions and bibliography relating to the general subjects to be discussed at the national conference. These are: The Student and Canada's Foreign Policy, The Student and Campus Life, The Student and the Control of Society, The Student and Productive Enterprises, The Student and the Church, and The Student and Education.

Some of the questions in the pamphlet which are to be discussed in the conference groups are: What is the function of the modern university? Is a philosophy of life of value to those going out into the modern world? What do you think of the imposition by Canada of the embargo on all war supplies or on all supplies to any aggressor nation, as defined by the present League of Nations? Is it free should the student press be? What is the field of Christian action today? Should the church be concerned with the psychological treatment of the individual? What is the relationship between the trade union movement and democracy?

Scores of study groups and students in Canadian universities have been meeting regularly for several weeks, preparing themselves for debates at the Winnipeg conference, which is to be held December 27-31.

A Story About Editors

Schoolboy Gives His Idea Of Their Probable Origin

This story by a school boy appeared in Certified News: "I don't know how newspapers got into the world, and I don't believe God does, for he ain't got nothing to say about them in the Bible. I think the editor is the missing link we read of, and stayed in the bushes after the flood, and then came out and wrote the thing up, and has been here ever since. If the editor makes mistakes, folks say he ought to be hung; but if the doctor makes mistakes he buries them and people don't say anything because they can't read and write Latin. When the editor makes mistakes there is a big law suit and swearing and a big fuss, but if the doctor makes one there is a funeral, cut flowers and perfect silence. A doctor can use a word a yard long without him or anyone else knowing what it means, but when the editor uses one he has to spell it. If the doctor goes to see another man's wife, he charges the man for the visit but if the editor goes he gets a charge of lynchlaw. Any college can make doctors to order, but editors have to be born."

Buy More Planes

Canada To Increase Her Air Force By 102 New Units

Canada will increase her air force by 102 airplanes, Hon. Ian MacKenzie, Minister of National Defence, said in an address at Peterborough. He did not enlarge on the subject in his speech, but later issued a statement.

The airplanes would be manufactured in Canada in this fiscal year, the statement said, in line with Government policy to "fortify our defence." Reorganization of non-permanent and active militia was almost complete.

The cotton gin and the spinning jenny are ranked among the most world-shaking inventions ever made. They were invented almost simultaneously.

Comets are delayed in their regular appearances largely through the pull of large planets. Halley, however, predicted the date of his comet's return, and missed it by only about a year.

"Tin" cans really are made of mild steel rolled into sheets and coated with pure tin. Being rather rare, pure tin is costly.

GASOLINE LOADED WITH HEAVY TAX

For a commodity which has become a necessity in so many lines of business activity, gasoline has been loaded with a crushing tax.

In three provinces of the Dominion the tax content of every dollar's worth of gasoline purchased exceeds 30 cents a gallon and in all of them it is more than 25 cents.

The figures for the various provinces are: British Columbia, 26.29 cents; Alberta, 26.04 cents; Saskatchewan, 25.17 cents; Manitoba, 25.26 cents; Ontario, 28.09 cents; Quebec, 27.44 cents; New Brunswick, 31.08 cents; Nova Scotia, 32.08 cents; Prince Edward Island, 35.37 cents. Over the Dominion at large, it means that for every dollar a consumer puts into gasoline, 27.38 cents goes in taxes.

These figures do not indicate the complete tax content of a gallon of gasoline. They do indicate, however, those which can be directly charged by the retailer and marketer against an already over-taxed necessity.—B-23
